Topic: Pilot's Scary Stories – A Discussion of Human Factors

with Robert Lenert, Bradley CT (BDL) FSDO

Tonight Robert Lenert will lead a discussion of a events told by pilots of flights where something unexpected happened – their scary stories. We will investigate the circumstances, decisions and the many human factors that led to these events. WINGS and AMT credit is available, with the focus on maintenance issues, but all who are involved in aircraft operations could benefit from this discussion.

Pilots attending were asked to tell their own scary pilot stories, either live in the Zoom or through the Chat window. The many experts in the room then commented on the human factors involved in allowing the various events to occur.

As you will see, at many points in the stories the event chain could have been broken, but the human factors lead to missing the opportunity. We, as pilots, can definitely learn from the lessons of these scary stories.
