Topic: Recovering a downed Comanche

We all know the saying, "There are two types of pilots: those who have had a gear-up landing, and those who will have one." While gear-ups are becoming less and less frequent in the Comanche world, gear collapse incidents with our aging fleet are still happening.

We spent time in this week's Zoom reviewing five recoveries which went okay or better and how they were accomplished.

View this week's recording for some interesting bits of information and tricks.
