ATC Pet Peeves

with Hunter Neucere, Fort Worth Center, and Mark Fellner, Austin Approach and Tower.

Hunter Neucere is an Air Traffic Controller for Fort Worth Center, with a '59 PA-24-250. Mark Fellner is an Air Traffic Controller for Austin Approach/Tower, and an instrument rated pilot who started flying at age 16.

Whether VFR flight following, practicing IFR approaches, or doing the real thing to minimums (with some strange missed procedure if you don't break out in time), ATC is a key part of what keeps us safe and efficient, and we are their customers but also their best experiences and their worst nightmares, and they have influence over our practice in their airspace.

Austin ATC actually did a survey of its controllers to find what pilot actions were funny vs what drives a controller nuts and came up with a Dirty Dozen. Hunter's uncle is former ATC as well. Mark and Hunter will be talking about the list of ATC Pet Peeves. With that history, the forecast is for great info, great stories, and a lively discussion!
